1st Plenary session: In your experience, what is the most critical factor for successfully adapting the Grameen microfinance / social business model to different cultural and economic contexts ?

1 Question ouverte *

How are you adapting to digital financial inclusion and access to women entrepreneurs? What's the right balance?

@jasper, what new innovation Grameen America intends to bring it's program

How are you adapting to digital inclusion

Have 2 questions to all panelists (actually):

- 1) Do you have many examples of progress at your client levels, like starting small and growing to larger, sustainable and independent businesses (in Eastern Europe we succeeded with that, but i want to get African/Asian view on this)
- 2) Microfinance is still a relatively low tech, have anyone already experimented and what is your feedback

In the context of increasing climate related risks, how can insurance and micro insurance products be made more affordable to effectively strengthen borrowers' financial resilience?

What is the right balance between protecting the methodology, localising and innovating?

The conversations so far today since we started at 9:30am have centered around things that all or most of us agree on. Can any of you share a point of view of yours or your institution that you believe most people in the room would disagree with? And why have you come to this unusual/divergent conclusion/view?

2nd Plenary session: Which financial innovation do you believe has the greatest potential to create sustainable pathways out of poverty for the most vulnerable communities ?

1 Question ouverte *

Great start to the post-lunch panel! In hopes of keeping this plenary lively and interesting: What is the biggest mistake you made the last 2 years and what did you learn from it?

Are microcredit members currently being enrolled in micro-insurance? What is the process through which this insurance is provided? Which specific risk factors are covered under the micro-insurance scheme?

What one piece of advice would you give to a new Grameen replication just starting out?

How do you manage the distinction between borrower and member as you offer other products and services beyond credit (like insurance)?

3rd Plenary session: What do you consider the most significant barrier to achieving 'zero unemployment' through entrepreneurship development in vulnerable communities ?

Question ouverte *

What are the main challenges to make Zero Unemployment have you experimented with small equity like instruments or convertible loans? convertible micro finance loans?

Most discussions of employment and unemployment, especially among youth, today center around the opportunities and threats created by Artificial Intelligence. Yet AI has not come up yet today and does not appear to be on the agenda for this entire meeting. How important would it be to come up with a shared Grameen family analysis and strategy on AI and how it can be a force for Three Zeros rather than against it? What would be part of such a strategy?

4th Plenary session: Which approach do you believe has the greatest potential to simultaneously address climate resilience and poverty reduction in vulnerable communities ?

Question ouverte *

Some climate solutions will help address poverty/inequality and unemployment, some will make no impact on them, and some will make poverty, inequality, and unemployment worse. Should we come up with a Grameen family strategy or position on the best climate solutions? Should we use the open time on tomorrow's agenda to work on developing such a family-wide strategy or at least a shared analysis and landscape scan?

Developed countries produce carbons and develop and underdeveloped countries become the victims, in this context what should be the role of Developed countries question to Mr Islam, AI is used in irrigation or soil management?

question to all panel members: where is any zero-carbon emission impact through microfinance, except in fight against deforestation?

The North os the carbon emitter by large and the South has to deal with it. Any experience or thoughts about how to make the north accountable instead of pushing carbon credits on the South?

BeeKast : Any comments ?

I really appreciate this gathering and feel empowered seeing such support from the family. Thank you the organiser and team who make this happen.

Need this types of gathering in every year in different countries

Please share the outcomes and structure the recommendations within an action plan.

Thank you Credit Agricole and Grameen Trust to give this opportunity to attend this wonderful and meaningful gathering. I am taking many insights, ideas and learning for myself and my organization. I will be really happy to participate again in a gathering like this.

Better to include young generation in future gathering

Thank you for making this first step happen

Now I really would love to see concrete next steps, and the Yunus Network getting structured

I would have love to work in more direct networking sub-groups

It was an awesome gathering with learning and reflections. Im honored.

Everything is great

It was great as a first gathering, for the next times I'd like more practical insights, it would be nice to come prepared to talk to specific people and organisations to work together towards a specific goal or collaboration. Overall it was great and I hope it's the beginning of a connected and shared community

Thank you for your great hospitality and setting up this eminent event which was really well curated.

It was an opportunity to learn other approaches and activities to be able to implement in our organisation

Great

Very good

This was a fantastic gathering, I think however we can have more roundtable discussions rather than panel discussions. We need to also figure out the next steps, I wonder if in the future we could have 3 days instead of 2, and the third day being really about planning and network development action - e.g., we could have had a co-design day of a common theory of change and strategic actions to do together.

Networking Lunch

The Networking Lunch takes place at the 6th floor
